

Thanks, Johnners

By Jonathan Agnew

Paperback. Book Condition: New. Not Signed; Perfect for cricket fans everywhere, Thanks Johnners is a warm and witty tribute to Brian Johnstone and his time at the helm of Test Match Special. The Test Match Special on-air incident, in which Jonathan Agnew's comment on Ian Botham's attempt to avoid stepping on his stumps - He just couldn't quite get his leg over provoking prolonged fits of giggles, most notably from Brian Johnstone, has been voted the greatest piece of sporting commentary ever. The friendship between Aggers and Johnners became immortalised through that broadcasting classic, but there was a far deeper bond between the two men, as this fascinating book reveals. Jonathan Agnew had grown up to the sound of Johnstone, Arlott, and a young Martin-Jenkins et al on TMS as he followed his father around on the family farm, ear glued to the transistor radio, but the two men met formally only when Agnew joined the BBC team at Headingley in 1991. Thus began a great working partnership which, fuelled by a mutual passion for the noble game, bridged the generation gap and ended only with Johnstone's sudden death in 1994. As this book demonstrates so convincingly, Johnners's wit, warmth...
