What is the CDM doing with Pakistan How and where has it worked Has it spurred any local effects To this end I will start out by giving an overview of Pakistan's current emissions and possible CDM approaches and then take a close look at all 29 registered CDM projects. I will also assess whether these projects have had an impact on Pakistan's overall emission pattern and whether some form of technology transfer has taken place. In a second major part of this essay I shall try to identify the effects that the CDM has had and if it has been able to spur local development within the...
