If we prevented the crushing of Serbia, he had said to the King, within thirty days we should get to Sofia; in any case, we should get to a point beyond which the Austro-German advance for technical reasons would be impossible. To all these arguments the King s only reply continued to be: I do not wish to intervene; we shall be beaten by Germany. The Prime Minister then told the King that he had not the right to enter into divergence for the second time from the leader of the majority of the nation; it would be a better course...
