A certain and not inconsiderable portion of the benefits derived from hydropathic establishments are, however. attainable without them. by other means, as by tmvelling, and c. , and c. For example, we suspect that many of the most striking results witnessed in such establishments, as in the case of Sir Edward Bulwer Lyttou or Mr. Lane, would have probably been obtained, if the patients had chosen to hire themselves, and had worked as agricultural labourers, in a dry, healthy district, and had lived on agricultural fare, sufficiently nutritious in quantity and kind, for a sufficient length of time. ll. Notwithstanding the success of the founder of hydrophathy, its practice by non-professional persons can neither be fully advantageous nor safe. At the same time, it is true that very little experience is necessary to enable an educated medical man to acquire sufficient insight into it for purposes of practice. Many of the...
